e. Servicing of approximately 1,387,838 square feet of headquarters space located in 34 buildings with an annual cost of $1,000,000 including telephone service.

f. Planning of long range real estate and construction requirements.

25X1A6a

g. Support of new real estate and construction requirements which include (1) the tentative construction project at [REDACTED] consisting of living quarters, recreational facilities and airstrip with a total estimated cost of [REDACTED] and (2) housing for personnel stationed at [REDACTED]

25X1A1a

25X1A6a

3. Accomplishment of all of the above requirements is beyond the present capacity of the Division. Obviously the new headquarters facility will have priority over all other requirements. This is the largest and most important construction project ever undertaken by the Agency. The magnitude of this [REDACTED] project will require a large percentage of the Division's technical capability and creates demands beyond the administrative capacity of the Division.

25X1A

4. Without the above increase of ten people, the Division will be unable to accomplish the following:

a. Efficient performance of the administrative activities connected with the new headquarters facility.

b. Continuation of full support to existing construction projects.

c. Adequately provide support to the Agency's [REDACTED] properties and facilities particularly in the field of inspection, maintenance and repair, as well as general administration which includes compilation of real estate records, submission of reports, data, statistics, etc.

d. Support of new real estate and construction requirements of any significant size.

e. Adequate planning of the Agency's long-range real estate and construction requirements.

f. Adequate servicing of the present headquarters space and telephone facilities.
